REV. D. W. FISHER.

An Interesting Letter on the School Question. Hanover College, Ind., Jan. 1, 1880. HE PERMANENT SCHOOL FUND OF INDIANA One of the glories of Indiana is her nagnificent provision for public schools. In the Centennial year she was described in area, the fifth in population, the sixth in churches, the twenty-second in bonded indebtedness, and the first in the amount of her invested school fund. It would take to give, in detail, the sources from manently and inalienably set apart for There are six or them, known respectively as the Congressional township, the nue, the saline, the swamp land, the semipary and the contingent fund. By an act of Congress, in 1785, one square mile of ern Territory, of which Indiana was a part, was reserved for the maintenance of public schools. This was the first great which has since risen to such proportions. It constitutes the Congres-sional Township Fund. Next to this in importance is the sinking fund. When the state Bank was chartered, in 1834, it was wenty years or more, at a rate of interest not exceeding five per cent, the sum of $1,300,000. With this loan the State took stock to the amount of $500,000. The re maining $500,000 was designed to be oun to individuals, at six per cent, for a term of years, to assist them took in the bank. The act also or score in the same and the score in this loan to in lividuals, the principal when paid, the lividends declared on the stock of the dividuals, the principal when paid, the dividends declared on the stock of the bank held by the State, and any part of the loan not required for the stock taken by the State, should constitute a sinking fund. This sinking fund was to be used first to pay the loan of $1,300,000, and the interest upon it. The surplus was set apart as a permanent fund for common schools. For this last purpose it has yielded about six millions of dollars. The entire sum received from all the sources mentioned for public instruction now amounts, in round numbers, to ten millions of dollars. Only the interest can be used; the principal is never to be spent. This great fund is two millions of dollars in excess of that which has been set apart for schools by any other State in the Union. Indiana justly prices herself on this splendid provision for the education of the masses of her people. In addition to this she levies taxes for schools to an amount which this year is four cents on the hundred dollars more than is levied for all the other departments of the GRAY'S SPECIFIC MEDICINE.

COMETHING NEW-

What is there to show for all this vast expenditure of money? One thing is that the State can boast of not less than ten thousand school houses valued at more than $10,000,000. Another, is more than thirteen thousand teachers. Better still is an army of more than half a million of of scholars. The average number of days for which, in the State at large, the schools are kept open is one hundred and thirty-two. But the best fruit of this immense outlay of money is the increasing intelligence of the masses of the people. The tuture too, must exhibit a still more marked progress. The statistics show that ninety-five per cent of the population, which is between the ages of six and fifteen years, now receive each year some THE RESULTS.

STATE COLLEGIATE ASSOCIATION.

My mind has been directed to this subject at this time by a visit to Indianapolis, from which I have just refurned. Last week the State Collegiate Association met there to discuss subjects connected with the higher education, especially of men. Of such institutions of learning, we can boast of at least fifteen, and in their faculties are professors who would adorn the chairs of any coilege. From year to year they come together to discuss topics which are of special interest to them. Many of your readers would recognize a couple of familiar faces among them—that of Rev. Dr. Alexander Martin, President of Asbury, and that of the President of Hanover College.

STATE TEACHERS ASSOCIATION This week the State Teachers Association has held its session. It represents the more than thirteen thousand men and women who are engaged in the common schools as instructors. Ex-Governor Hendricks made the address of welcome, and took occasion to say, among other things, that when he was a boy he was one of the few scholars who had the advantage of a lady as his teacher. Now nearly half of the entire corps in the State are females. At the meeting of the Association there must have been four or five hundred present. Probably a majority were women. Two days were spent in the discussion of the work assigned to the common schools.

ADVICE TO WEST VIRGINIA.

ADVICE TO WEST VIRGINIA.

If I could speak to the people of West Virginia, and could command their attention, I would say to them, Go and do likewise. The difficulties in the way of popular instruction with you are no greater than they once were in Indiana. Lay the foundation so deep and broad that you can build upon them for generations and that, as the structure grows, it will also strengthen in usefulness and popularity. Schools and churches ultimately are of more importance even than railways. The people can do without the railroads, but they cannot prosper and progress without sound teaching. The railways will follow schools and churches. Build the latter, and the former will come. I am aware that a noble beginning has been made among you. As the years of the State increase may she grow stronger in the means and methods of popular instruction.

CLARKSBURG, W. VA., January 3.

Editors Intelligencer.

This ancient city of Clarksburg is again calm after a season of intense excitement. This excitement was caused by the muni didate, Gen. R. S. Northcott, who had days, ending his last term at the beginadministered the municipal laws to the satisfaction of the law abiding citizens, but was ever a terror to violators of the law. E. B. Hursey, Esq., the license candidate, was very popular with a large relationship of temperance men who voted for him on account of family ties. D. C. Lee, Esq., a son of the late Judge Lee, a highly honorable and very popular young man was also a candidate, and Conrad man was also a candidate, and Corract Ross, Esq., a Justice of the Peace in this city, also wished to add the duties of the mayoralty to his other judicial business. Lee and Ross might be considered inde-pendent candidates, Hursey representing the license element, and Northcott, the pendent candidates, flueray representing the license element, and Northcott, the Temperance party.

The independent candidates drew their votes about equally from the two other parties.

The town had been throughly canvassed by all the candidates. The temperance men saw a week before the election that they were defeated, but they did not relax their efforts.

An immense vote was polled and the result was as follows: Hursey received 218 votes, Northcott 118, Lee 99, and Rosa 60.

There was also a spirited contest for School Commissioner. Mr. William R Alexander and Mr. John G. Gettings were the candidates.

Mr. Gettings was elected by a small majority.

Air. Gettings was elected by a small majority.

A full license council was elected.

Reading in the Catholic bible (Vulgate) I find in Exodus, 34th chapter, 29th verse, "Cumque descenderet Moyses de monte Sinai, tenebat duas tabulas testimonii, et ignorabat quod cornesta esset facies."

rendering of the Greek "Metanoiss" (change of mind) into the Latin "penitenhe (penance), but to find that St. Jerome says "he knew not that he had horns" is oo much, and I cannot restrain my merriment at the ludicrous figure of the Law

And yet neither the Hebrew bible nor James' translation reads thus, but "he James' translation reads thus, but "he knew not that his face shone." In these days, when men are diving deep into the mysteries of God's revelations that they may learn his will, the English people are revising and adding marginal readings where the etymology is doubtful, changing such words as had lost their meaning in the sense they were used by James' bishops, such as "prevent," which used to mean "help" and now only mean to "hinder."

I should be deeply obliged if you would publish this note. Perhaps some scholars anay kindly throw light upon the passage. I do not know if it is a printer's error only contained in the edition my copy belongs to.

Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, and knowing that its great popularity is the natural result of honest merit alone, and not on account of wide-apread advertisements, we do most cordially recommend it as one of the very best remedies known for the cure of Colds, Coughs, Consumption, Ashma and all Lung diseases. Wistar's Balsam is put up in large pint bottles, and the price is $1.00. "A word to the wise is sufficient." ninety-five per cent of the population, which is between the ages of six and fifteen years, now receive each year some public school instruction. Indiana has had a good deal to contend with in this matter. Many of her settlers have come room States where public schools have been unpopular and largely neglected. Even to-day a vast amount of her soil is not under cultivation. Her lands are by no means rich in some counties. But it is almost an impossibility that she shall not son be fully abreast of any other State of the Union in point of popular intelligence. She now leads a large portion of them.
